THAT PICTURE of a "lake" in Campbell which appeared a couple of weeks ago in The Press surprised a number of people.

Campbell is so lacking in natural beauty attractions that it came as a shock to some to think there was a "lake" around.

Admittedly it is only a pool formed in Los Gatos Creek bed north of Campbell Ave. as part of the flood control-water conservation program. But the photos that were run gave the appearance of a placid pond in a rustic setting.

The pictures didn't include the freeway just a few hundred feet away.

While we agree that Campbell's "lake" is a man-made affair and its depth and coverage can fluctuate by the turn of a wheel, the pictures did indicate the possibilities, even if they are extremely remote, of transforming the creek area into an attractive beauty spot.

-O-

CHANGING THE CHANNEL of the Los Gatos Creek south of Campbell Ave. into a "speedway" so that the water can rush on its way without meandering, probably was a commendable engineering project.

But we can't say that it did anything for the appearance of the creek.

Conceding that it was necessary to get the water back on the straight and narrow path, was it necessary to be so blunt about it?

From an esthetic point of view, we much preferred the old channel, even with some of the old tires and other trash that were in it.

One could always remove the trash.

But there is not much that can be done to improve the appearance of the straight-up-and-down pattern of the new channel.

One thing for sure, motorists going by on the freeway will not mistake it for one of Mother Nature's better efforts.

Campbell's "lake", on the other hand, on the north side of Campbell Ave. could pass for a natural job, provided the engineers don't "improve" it too much.

-O-

ANOTHER LONG-AWAITED "improvement" pertaining to the creek area will affect Page Dam, on Camden Ave.

Plans apparently call the widening of the bridge and the replacement of Page Dam with a straight cement-chute affair.

Again we must concede that from a strict engineering point of view, that is probably the most efficient way to move the water.

But, holy smokes, do we always have to be efficient?

We liked the way the water bubbled over Page Dam all these years.

It seems to us that the engineers who planned the dam's elimination should use a little imaganation in their designs.

And that's what Councilman Ralph Doetsch wondered, too, at a

Council lists issues

This community's future is wrapped up in the capital improvement bond issue that will be presented to the voters on Oct. 24, civic leaders emphasized this week, as the City Council took the final steps in preparing the ballot proposal.

In addition to the $3.2 million capital improvement program that has been recommended by the Citizens Advisory Committee, representing every area of the city, the ballot will include a special $400,000 proposal for a new 12,000 square foot library.

But unlike the five other propositions that will be on the ballot, the library bonds will be paid back through lease payments by the county library district and will have no effect on the current tax rate.

On Monday night the agreement with the county was executed which specifies that the city will build the new library from the bond issue and the county will lease the facility for $2000 per month amortizing the bond issue over a period of 25 years. The supervisors had approved the agreement last week.

The library will be a part of the civic center complex of the city.

Church to honor former Press publisher on "90th"

Mrs. Edna Smith, former publisher of The Campbell Press, will be the guest of honor at a celebration in honor of her 90th birthday next Sunday, July 30.

Her daughter, Mrs. Wilma Krohn of San Francisco, has extended an invitation to the parishioners of the Congregational Church of Campbell to share in the birthday celebration after Sunday's worship services at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Smith has been a consistent weekly worshipper at the Congregational Church since 1930.

FORMER PUBLISHER

Mrs. Smith, with her late husband, Harry C. Smith, was the owner and publisher of The Campbell Press for 33 years. They purchased the newspaper, then known as the Campbell Interurban Press, in February, 1912 from Lewis C. Dick and A. B. Chamberlain.

The Smiths had lost their home and newspaper business in a fire in Pingree, North Dakota. They saw an advertisement in a trade magazine that the Campbell paper was for [illegible] they purchased it.

In those days the Press was located at the corner of Campbell and Central Avenue. The type was all hand set and the circulation was around 150. The paper had been in existence for 17 years prior to the Smith's purchase.

Smith died in 1937, and Mrs. Smith continued to operate the paper with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knappen until 1945 when she sold it to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Allen of Portland, Oregon.

In spite of her advanced years, Mrs. Smith is a vital leader in the community. She is a member of the Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church and the Country Women's Club of Camp-

Tomorrow night and four times next week

Student summer theater group presents two musicals

There is a lot of "royalty" around Campbell High School this summer, as more than 100 enthusiastic youngsters ranging in ages from four to 18, as part of the summer humanities workshop, present two musicals centering around kings and their kingdoms.

The curtain lifted on "The Emperor's New Clothes" at 2:30 this afternoon (Wednesday) in a special matinee in the high school auditorium. A repeat performance is scheduled for tomorrow (Thursday) at 8 p.m.

The second king to make his appearance as part of the summer program will be the production, "The King and I" which will be presented in the auditorium in four performances on next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, August 2, 3, 4, 5, at 8 p.m.

Admission to the productions is 50 cents.

The production is part of a summer workshop in creative arts conducted for the second consecutive summer at the high school. All cast members "double" as costumers, makeup experts and set workers

The musical, "The Emperor's New Clothes is a well known children's fable. John Healy plays the role of the emperor.

Other roles include Gail McEvoy as the empress; Dennis Conroy, as prime minister and Nancy Tuthill, as his wife; Ron Hogan as the romantic male lead, Rudolph and Diane Russel as the female romantic lead; and Steve Tuthill as the general.

More than 30 students are in the choral group in the musical and another 60 are in the orchestra to make up a cast of more than 100.

Next week's production, "The King and I", that opens on Wednesday at 8 p.m. is the long popular Rodgers and Hammerstein adaption of "Anna and the King of Siam".

Playing the role of the king is Walt Ritter; Anna, Julie Gable; Tuptim, Gwen Davis; Luntha, Chuck Mork; Lady Thiang, Kay Pruvich with a supporting cast and orchestra that rivals the "pros" of the theater.

The musical director of both shows is Larry McCommas. John Hall is the dramatic director. Both are members of the Campbell High faculty.

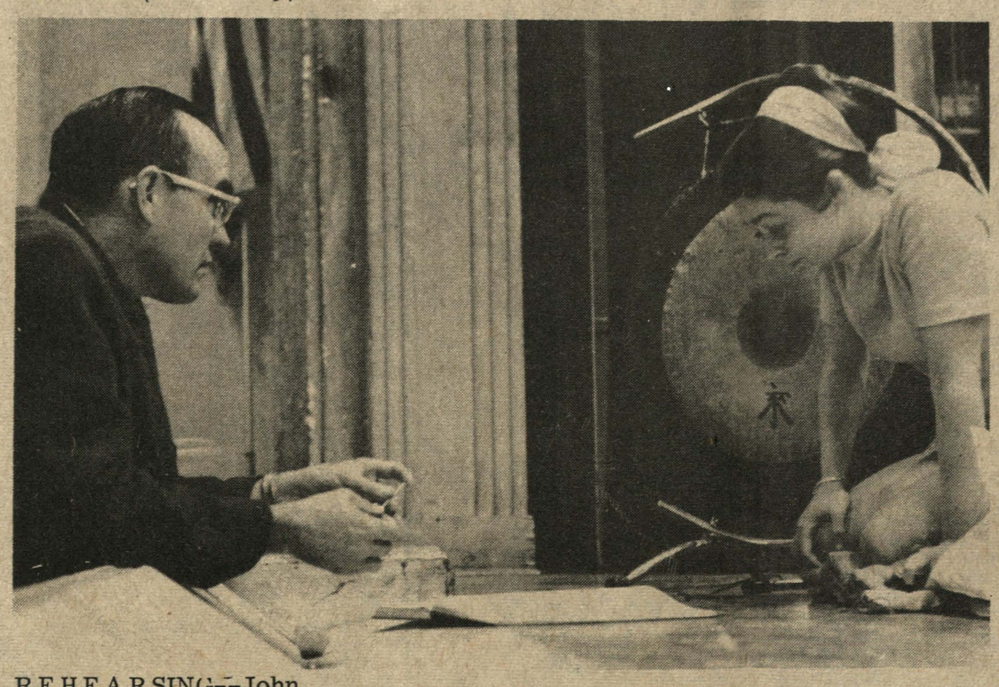
Choreographer is Janie Jones, an Arizona teacher here for the summer and Racheal Ellis is the costumer.

The sets have been designed by Kay Pruvich assisted by Gail McEvoy, Mike Gruenwald, Bill Wells, and Mark Ammermann.

Jeane Dusharme is stage manager and Jim Chernoff is lighting director. Former Campbell student, Sondra Wheel is painist.

The cast of the summer humanities workshop is made up of students throughout the Campbell Union High School District.

Tickets may be purchased at the door and for further information call 379-4710, ext. 35.



REHEARSING--John Hall, of the Campbell High faculty, director of the two musicals produced in the summer theater workshop, gives some last minute instructions to Gwen Davis who has the part of "Tuptim" in "The King and I" which will be presented four nights next week starting Wednesday, Aug. 2, in the Campbell High auditorium.

ROYAL ROLES--Gail McEvoy, of Campbell High and John Healy, of Camden, have the roles of empress and emperor, in "The Emperor's New Clothes" being presented by the summer humanities workshop. A matinee was scheduled this afternoon (Wednesday) at high school auditorium and a repeat performance will be given tomorrow (Thursday) at 8 p.m.

There is action

At Campbell's first Congress for Community Progress held in February of this year, a number of recommendations were made based on the panel discussions that were held.

Subsequently at an "evaluation" meeting, the recommendations were compiled and forwarded by the Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the Congress, to the responsible agencies.

There were 15 such recommendations submitted to the City Council. These were studied by the city manager and then presented to the City Council for any possible action.

In last week's issue, eight of these recommendations and the council action on each one were published.

Following are the remaining recommendations:

Congress for Community Progress (recommendations and action taken by the City Council)

9. RECOMMENDATION: That the Campbell City Council should provide for more positive cooperation among potential developers and investors through the City Staff and Planning Commission.

PURPOSE: Any city can improve its methods and procedures which encourage developers and investors to locate in the subject city.

ACTION: The city staff, planning commission and City Council will examine and evaluate all areas of contact with developers and investors to determine where improvement in methods, procedures, timing and attitude could be effected.

10. RECOMMENDATION: That the Campbell City Council should study the present policy of saw-tooth installations of street improvements with the possibility of postponing improvements or starting all improvements at one time.

PURPOSE: Saw-tooth installations of street improvements not only appear to the outsider as haphazard planning, but they may create traffic hazards to those who are unfamiliar with the area.

ACTION: Referred to Public Works Director for investigation and report.

11. RECOMMENDATION: That the Industrial and Commercial Development Committee affirm the action and attitude of the City Council in its development plans of the downtown core.

PURPOSE: To take actions which revitalize the Downtown Core.

ACTION: Continue with studies and improvements to the downtown area, and continue the close-working relationship between the Downtown Redevelopment Committee, property owners and tenants, and City of Campbell.

12. RECOMMENDATION: That the Campbell city government take full advantage of the varied services available through the County Health Department.

PURPOSE: To utilize those services from the County Health Department which would benefit Campbell citizens.

ACTION: Referred to City Manager's office for investigation and report.

13. RECOMMENDATION: That as individuals, groups and organizations our responsibility is to do all we can to support our city officials in improving the image of Campbell; and recommend to the City Council that a study be made and a program proposed that will enable us to work as individuals or groups or as an entire community in assuring that Campbell is a city with a bright future.

PURPOSE: To improve the image of the City of Campbell.

ACTION: This is a goal which no one group or organization can accomplish singularly. It will require the efforts of all citizens and organizations interested in creating a city of which we are proud. This goal is one which is accepted by each public, quasi-public and private organization in the City and that each in its own way should develop an action program which will contribute to the goal of improving the image of the City of Campbell.

14. RECOMMENDATION: That the program that has been started by the Council be emphasized in the matter of anti-litter.

PURPOSE: To incorporate into the City's beautification clean-up campaign a specific action program for anti-litter throughout the City.

ACTION: Referred to the Citizens' Beautification Committee.

15. RECOMMENDATION: That the City Council be requested to adopt a plan giving monetary reward or other recognition to the citizens who have innovative suggestions for more efficient government.

PURPOSE: To establish a program which would encourage citizen interest in local government and result in savings in City governmental operations.

ACTION: Referred to City Manager's Office for investigation and report.

recent City Council meeting.

Ralph has seen the water tumble over Page Dam for many more years than we have. And he has become sort of attached to the idea.

Another "old timer", Al Smith, a former Campbell High teacher whose family has been around these parts for many years, also expressed disappointment that Page was going to go and to be replaced by a concrete chute.

- O -

AT THE COUNCIL MEETING Ralph conceded that the channel and road had to be changed. But he saw no reason why a few boulders couldn't be dumped into the channel so that the water could churn a little.

Ralph's fellow councilmen agreed with him, even though they realized that the city has virtually no authority in the field. Staff was directed to explore the matter and, if possible, offer the suggestion of dropping a boulder or two where it would count.

Page Dam when the water was flowing at full blast made an attractive minature water falls.

One citizen in a letter to the City Council had suggested that the city could improve the attractiveness of the water falls by installing colored lights.

The councilmen thought the idea was great. But they ruefully had to concede that Page Dam was apparently on its way out. In addition, it seems the city had very little to say about it, with or without lights.

We hope, however, that Ralph's suggestion of a boulder or two in the channel to allow the water to sort of swirl and splash as it rushes to wherever its going will get support in the right circles.

"LET GEORGE DO IT" was the way Assemblyman John Vasconcellos started out his recent "Report to My Constitutents", a weekly column he distributes, pertaining to various activities in Sacramento.

Naturally we were interested. We thought at first it was a personal note.

But John was referring to that old saying that we have been familiar with ever since we learned our given name.

The assemblyman pointed out that "let George do it" was a philosophy that very few people will admit to practicing themselves.

He maintained that we Californians have been saying "Let George Do It" when it comes to paying for our local school system.

Naturally we were still interested.

John claimed that "George" who has been shouldering the heaviest financial burden for operating our schools is the fellow who pays the local property taxes.

John believes that "George" could be in for some long overdue property tax relief, if Ab 272 is passed.

This is one "George" that would sort of like that.

Police arrest dope suspect

Campbell Police, in conjunction with the Santa Clara County Sheriff's Office, have arrested William Louis Bernardasci, 37, an unemployed dairy pasteurizer of 225 S. Union Ave., Apt. 201, Campbell, for the alleged possession with intent to sell of 19 ounces of uncut heroin valued at $250,000. According to police officials, this is one of the largest caches of heroin discovered in northern California so far this year.

Bernardasci was arrested following the search of his apartment and car. The drugs were found behind the driver's seat of his automobile, an MG roadster, parked next to the apartment building. The suspect was arraigned before Judge Paul Thiel.

Council lists

City Council designated the six propositions (A to F) that will appear on the ballot Oct. 24. On Aug. 14, the next meeting, an ordinance will be adopted calling the election, listing the polling places and election officials and describing the propositions that will be voted on.

PROPOSITIONS

Proposition A will be the $400,000 library proposal. Whether the wording in the proposal can include the fact that the bonds will be paid back by lease payments and not taxes is still undetermined.

Proposition B will be for the $1,045,000 street and traffic safety program which includes funds for street lights, traffic signals, the Rincon pedestrian overpass at the expressway and improvements for major and minor streets.

Proposition C lists $130,000 for the completion of the long-needed corporation yard (service center) for the city.

Proposition D is the $340,000 fire protection measure which includes the building of Fire Station No. 2 on Sunnyoaks Ave. on property now owned by the city. For a number of years the city has rented a residence in that area for a station at $200 per month. The new station will eliminate that. It also provides funds for land acquisition for a third station in the western part of Campbell and for a new headquarters location.

Proposition E provides $835,000 for the construction of a city administration-police building to be located in the civic center complex with the library.

Proposition F provides $850,000 for parks and recreation improvements which includes the expansion of the Rincon Park site as recommended by the citizens committee and the construction of a community center building in the expanded park.

COMMITTEE

The 60-member Citizens Advisory Committee which made the recommendations for the capital improvement program has been reappointed as a bond drive committee and will be headed by Don Hebard, general chairman, and Mrs. Jeanette Watson, vice-chairman, who held similar positions with the advisory group.

Hebard, in accepting the chairmanship of the new committee emphasized that the intensive six-week research and study which developed the capital improvement recommendations showed that the program was practical and economically feasible.

He added that no single phase of the program had priority over any other but it was a "package plan" which was needed if the city was to move ahead.

He explained that the propositions allow for the needed improvements for streets, parks, fire station, civic center, the basic foundation for a city's progress.

ARCHITECT

In another action relating to the capital improvement program and bond issue, the council Monday night approved an agreement with William Hedley, local architect, for architectural services for both the city administration and library building.

Under the agreement, Hedley will prepare prior to the bond approval a site plan and schematic drawings of the two facilities for the civic center at a cost not to exceed $3750.

City Manager Bob Stephens explained that having these plans showing the relationship between the two civic center facilities would be advantageous during the bond campaign. The architect's fee, he added, would be reimbursed from the bond funds.

Utilities show slight increase in valuation

Santa Clara County has been notified that the property of privately-owned public utilities has been preliminarily assessed at $149,471,880 for 1967.

This compared to the 1966 total of $148,315,120, a change of $1,155,960, or .78 percent, according to the State Board of Equalization, which assesses these properties for local taxation.

The tenative total for 192 utilities was pegged at $4.66 billion, a gain of $34 million over last year.

The Board noted that equalization and lower common stock values for nearly every major utility accounted for the minimal changes in many counties.

Common stock averages are a major factor in the Board's valuation, but it also uses debt, capitalized earnings, reproduction cost new less depreciation, and historical cost less depreciation as value indicators.

The Board will hear appeals of the affected utilities during the first two weeks in August and set a final assessment on the third Monday of that month.

Local hospital offers credit card

Now you can put your hospital bill on your credit card.

At least you will be able to do so, starting Aug. 1, at Campbell Community Hospital.

E.E. Admire, hospital administrator, announced that the hospital has joined the Interbank Card charge program being initiated by a number of banks in the area.

"We are affiliated with Crocker-Citizens National Bank in this program," Admire said, "but it is my understanding that all of the banks in the Interbank Card program will participate in accepting charges made at the hospital."

Admire believes that the non-profit Campbell Community Hospital may be the first hospital in this area to join in the credit card program.

"We are living in a credit card economy," Admire said, "and we might as well face up to it, and provide our patients with this service, in addition to all those others we provide to heal and comfort them."

CLIP AND SAVE

Here's help for women who are in the dark about fuses, switches and lights.

The easiest way to deal with an electrical failure is to prepare for it. Keep a flashlight and fresh fuses handy. Know where your main switch and branch circuit panel ("fuse box") are. Then, if your lights go out, you're ready to do something about it.

Is a fuse blown?

If the lights fail in one or two rooms only, a branch circuit fuse has blown or a circuit breaker has opened. If service fails in a large part of the house, the trouble is probably due to a "main" fuse blowing out or an open circuit breaker. If the neighbors' lights are out, too, call us.

Remove cause. Check fuse box.

First, disconnect frayed electric cords and multiple appliances on same outlet. Then examine the branch circuit panel and replace any fuse with a smoked-up window or melted metal strip inside. Always replace a fuse with one the same size (15 amp, 20 amp, etc.)

If the branch circuit panel has circuit breakers ("on" and "off" switches), restore service by following the instructions on the switch or panel. Many homes today have both fuses and circuit breakers.

Check the main switch.

If your lights are still off, check your main switch. If it's the fuse or cartridge type, the switch should be turned off before replacing one. If your lights still don't work, call us. Or—if you have any doubts about the problem or the solution, give us a call.

Helpful tips.

If your electricity is off for any period, don't open your refrigerator or freezer. Frozen foods stay frozen longer if the freezer door is kept closed. If food starts to thaw, add dry ice. And don't forget: when electric service is restored, reset your electric clocks.

PG&E is ready to help.

Repeated fuse problems probably mean inadequate wiring or faulty equipment, and you should consult an electrical contractor. If you can't restore power for any reason, call us and we'll send a serviceman.

Our most important job

Providing reliable gas and electric service at the lowest possible rates is our most important job. There have been six rate reductions in gas and electric rates in the past four years. This makes PG&E service a bigger family bargain than ever.

Artists invited to enter TB design contest

A call for artists to submit designs for the 1969 Christmas Seals was issued this week by Mrs. Charles Dorr, president Tuberculosis and Health Association of Santa Clara and San Benito Counties.

The competition offers a $300 cash award, Mrs. Dorr said, for the design judged best in the Bay Area by a panel of art experts.

The 1967 Christmas Seal, designed by Gerald Snyder of San Francisco, was entered in competition three years ago. He received $1000 in cash from the National Tuberculosis Association for his design of a 10-unit Christmas Seal train.

Deadline for the Bay Area contest is Sept. 11 1967.

All entries will be displayed at a central location during October, Mrs. Dorr said. Immediately after the public showing, entries will be sent to New York City for consideration by the national panel.

For the third year radio station KABL is co-sponsoring the Bay Area Christman Seal design competition, as a public service.

Mrs. Dorr said that the two-arm bar which is the registered trademark of the National Tuberculosis Association, must be incorporated into the design. The design should also be appropriate to the Christmas Season and must be in four colors.

Further information is available from the local tuberculosis association, 1144 N. Fourth St. San Jose, phone 295-3533, or from KABL radio, 632 Commercial St., San Francisco. The station will broadcast information about the contest during July and August.

All boys and girls in Santa Clara County who will be at least 10 years old and not yet 13 by Aug. 1, 1967, are eligible for the contest. Entrants will be judged on talent, photogenic appeal, voice quality and diction, and personality. The top boy and girl in each Area final contest will go to the County finals to be held on August 6.

Entries in communities without recreation departments should immediately contact the Santa Clara County Fair Public Relations office (295-3050) for screening through their nearest recreation department or authorized organization.

It's a well-known fact that whenever you want to buy something, rent something, or have something fixed, you'll find it fast in the yellow pages. But there's one man in New York who has found a new use for the yellow pages—he's eating his way through them. To this date he has covered half of the restaurants in Manhattan. And, at his present pace he will visit his last restaurant in 1980 at a cost of $50,000! Might I suggest he then try all the reducing salons?

HOT WEATHER FAVORITES

If summer, as a season, is shy on flowering shrubs you'd never know it in California. Here, in addition to other nice things, we have both oleanders and Crape Myrtles to brighten our days. And brighten them they do.

There is hardly a more floriferous duo in the horticultural world than these heat-loving shrubs. They are a match for the voluptuous spring beauty of rhododendrons and twice as easy to grow. Ignore them culturally and they still produce color in a manner that makes them impossible to ignore in any other way.

Only where summers are fog bound and cool will oleanders and Crape Myrtles sulk. Give them the full-sun treatment, however hot, and they'll respond with a spring-like freshness that can't be beat.

Oleanders are available in an ever wider variety of named specimens. Two that are newly on the market and available for the first time from members of the California Association of Nurserymen are the light pink variety "Palm Springs", and the rose-red "Professor Bodkin". Add these to such proven beauties as the light yellow "Isle of Capri", salmon pink "Hawaii", white "Sister Anges", and the double yellow "Sorrento", among others, and you have more than enough to choose from.

There are many ways to use oleanders. As a colorful hedgerow where space permits their spreading growth, as tubbed specimens in large containers, as individual showpieces in border or in the lawn and as a small tree. C.A.N. nurserymen offer some of the above varieties as tree-type specimens, and these have proved highly popular with California gardners.

The newest thing in Crape Myrtles are the recently introduced dwarf shrub varities in the full range of family colors--red, pink, orchid and white. These diminutive versions of the group feature the same crinkled, crepe-like flowers, and handsome reddish stems of the taller varities. They can be used wherever you'd use deciduous shrubs in the border.

The taller varieties can be trained by pruning to grow as trees or as large shrubs. Tree forms are available through C.A.N. nurserymen.

Botanically the oleanders are properly referred to as Nerium oleander; Crape Myrtle is Lagerstroemia indica.

BAMBOOS

The airy grace of bamboos and their like is one of the pleasant aspects of gardening in California. In most areas, these tropicals are grown only as greenhouse plants. Here we treat them as general landscape items, albeit with a certain reverence.

Some bamboos are more tender than others, but those offered by members of the California Association of Nurserymen are usually suited to more California climate zones, with mountain areas being the exception. And Heavenly Bamboo, which is not a true bamboo, is hardy down to nearly zero degrees Farenheit. It can be grown throughout the country, but it's best in California where it can be grown in association with members of the bamboo family.

Bamboos are either clumping or root-running in nature and by far the most widely grown here are the latter. If you don't want them to spread, confine their roots in a container or plant them in a sleeve such as concrete pipe in the garden.

The two most popular and widely distributed bamboos in California are Golden Bamboo and Dwarf Bamboo. They are as different as night and day. Golden Bamboo pushes up its reed-like stems to a height of ten or 12 feet in the open ground and usually less than that in a tub. The canes are a golden color, attractive against the greener leaves. Feature this one in a tub on the deck, or use it as a tightly planted screen in the garden.

Dwarf Bamboo is a miniature that grows from only inches to about a foot high, spreading like grass to which all bamboos are related, and even tolerant of mowing. Use it in the rock garden, in a tub or in boggy soils near a garden pool.

Heavenly Bamboo makes an ideal companion planting to true bamboos, exhibiting the same feathery grace and adding seasonal color in fall when it produces red berries and some of the most vivid autumnal tones to be found in California foliage. Use it in a foundation planting, a border or in a tub. You can't go wrong in any situation.

Botanically the Golden Bamboo is Phyllostachys aurea. Dwarf Bamboo is Sasa pygmaea. Heavenly Bamboo is Nandina domestica.

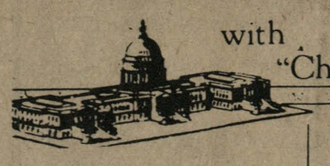
with "Charlie" Gubser



In the space of a few months, the Administration has urged new spending programs on the Congress, including federal financing of local programs to exterminate rats, and it has urged greater spending in programs already on the books. Also, in recent months the Administration has requested a record increase in the national debt and is now finally admitting (while blaming it on the Vietnam war) that a tremendous tax increase will be necessary.

Senator Norris Cotton (R-N.H.) has an unusual flair for describing issues of the day in homespun yet descriptive language. The following exerpts from one of his recent newsletters describes my reaction to the governmental inconsistencies of today in much clearer language than I can find.

"The President called for a new permanent ceiling of $365 billion--an increase of $29 billion. Never since World War II has such an increase been called for, or even suggested. In all those years the greatest single advance was $11 billion. The shocking fact is that, by the Administration's own figures, the high-water mark of their planned debt will reach only $345 billion. So why all the extra? They say they fear contingencies. The government's income might fall below expectations. Congress might refuse to increase your taxes. War costs might go up. (One 'contingency' doesn't seem to occur to them--spending could be cut.) Of course, the real reason is they want plenty of leeway so they can constantly borrow more and spend more without undue publicity. Each time they have to come back to the Congress to raise the limit, the people are alerted to what is going on. Actually, that is one of the reasons we have a debt limit.

"The House at first balked at skyrocketing the limit to $365 billion but finally succumbed, though they resorted to a little face-saving device by making the permanent ceiling $365 billion and allowing 'temporary' borrowing of seven more. In the Senate we fought to hold the line on $348 billion but lost by one vote, 44 to 43.

"Billions could be saved and the world would be better off if we wrote finis to our whole foreign aid program and started all over again on a modest, safe-and -sane basis.

"What a mess it has become--particularly military aid. American tanks we sold to Isreal have captured American tanks we gave to Jordan. Now King Hussein of Jordan is back at the White House lunching with the President and probably asking for more. In recent years we have provided $322 million in military aid to seven Arab countries who have revealed themselves as our implacable enemies.

"The burden that uncontrolled government and runaway economy is placing on those trying to live on a moderate income is becoming intolerable. Recently I had a letter from a wife whose husband receives $6,000 a year, whose taxes and cost of of daily bread are increasing, and whose children are reaching college age. Her closing words, straight from the heart, are more meaningful than any speech I've heard in the Senate.

"Where does the government get its money? From the vacations we could never take, the movies we never saw, the restaurant dinners we never ate, the clothes we never bought, and the savings we haven't got."

I can only add one word to Senator Cotton's clear and straight forward language--"Amen".

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

Q. - Early in 1965, I was injured and as a result have been unable to work since that time. I filed for disability benefits and the claim was denied because it was thought that I would eventually be able to return to work. My doctor feels that I will not be able to work for another year. Is there any chance that I could now draw monthly benefits?

A. - Yes. The 1965 amendments to the Social Security Law changed the disability eligibility requirements to include persons who are unable to work for at least a year because of a severe disabling condition. You should check with your local Social Security Office.

Q. - I signed up for Medicare and have received my card; however, I will continue to work and earn over $5,000 a year. Can I get full medicare benefits?

A. - Yes. The amount of your earnings has no effect on your medicare eligibility.

Q. - I don't receive a monthly social security check, and I have sent in one $9 quarterly premium payment for doctor bill insurance. Is it permissible for me to pay once a year instead of quarterly?

A. - Yes. You may pay as much as one year's premium at one time, if you pay in advance.

Q. - If I wait to enroll for medical insurance, will the premium remain the same?

A. - No. If you wait to enroll you may have to pay a higher premium for the same protection and your coverage will not begin until six to nine months after you enroll.

Q. - What happens if I choose not to enroll during the seven-month period beginning with the third month before my birthday?

A. - Should you decide not to enroll for medical insurance during your first enrollment period, you will not have another chance to enroll until the last three months of the next odd-numbered year.

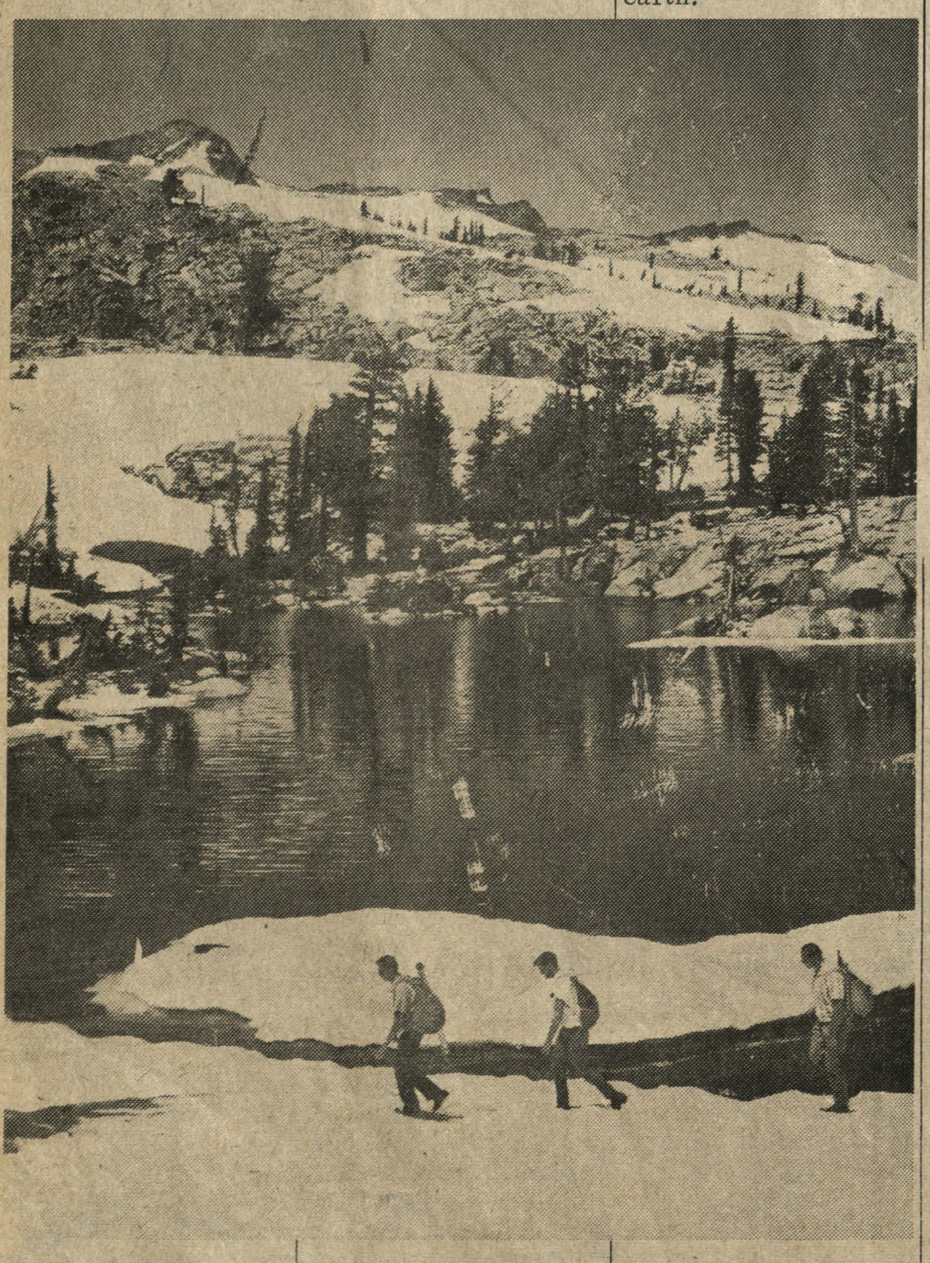
GAUGING WATER FLOW--Ed Horciza, a PG&E hydrographer uses precision instruments to measure water flow on Pyramid Creek in Desolation Valley, El Dorado County. This may be a record water year for California.

DAMS CONSERVE WATER--Two members of PG&E's hydro department place flashboards at the small dam of Ropi Lake in Desolation Valley to hold water for future use. Water from the high Sierra turns turbines to generate electricity and then serves domestic and agricultural needs as it moves downstream.



HIGH COUNTRY BEAUTY--A three-man team of Pacific Gas and Electric Comapny water experts hikes through a deep snow pack past a 40-foot-long iceberg on a finger of American Lake near the 85.00-foot level in Desolation Valley. The mid-July scene confirms that the high country still bears evidence of winter's touch.

PG&E discovers winter lingers in high country

In mid-July this year, winter lingers in California's high country.

A trek into the Desolation Valley Primitive Area by a three-man team of Pacific Gas and Electric Company water specialists to measure flows at one of the company's 600 water gauging stations confirms that winter has not left the high Sierra and this may be a record year for late summer runoff from deep snowpacks.

PG&E's water stations provide essential information for its own use and for state and federal agencies. From flow measurements taken by the PG&E crew projections are made on the amount of water that Californians can depend upon for domestic and agricultural use as well as the use which the utility company makes of it to generate electricity for the state's growing energy needs.

In all of its more than 155 mountain reserveroirs PG&E has 2 1/2 million acre feet of water storage capacity.

Desolation Valley Primitive Area is near the 8,500-foot level in El Dorado County, seven-and-a-quarter miles southwest of Lake Tahoe's Emerald Bay and about 2000 feet higher. The area is closed to all motorized vehicles. With rare exception the area is unchanged since the time granite was carved into spectacular forms by a mammoth Ice Age glacier which covered the valley.

Taking water readings at Desolation Valley this year has been no easy task for PG&E water experts who have battled deep snow drifts to reach the wilderness station. Even in mid-July, when the team of three hiked into the area from Echo Lake off Highway 50, but obliterated what are usually well-defined U.S. Forest Service trails at this time of year.

On a finger of American Lake near the 8,500 foot level the team came across a 40-foot-long iceberg. On most of the day-long high elevation hike the three moved slowly across hard-crust snow drifts that streched for a mile before thinning out into small patches of granit-impregnated earth.

Most lakes on the route were just thawing out from the long and wet winter.

Ed Horciza, of San Francisco, one of seven PG&E hydrographers who tend the 600 water gauging stations in the hydroelectric system, waded into the 41-degree water of Pyramid Creek which runs south from Lake Aloha on the Channel Lake chain into the American River.

Using a precision water measuring instrument, he was able to determine that the mid-July water flow from the Desolation Valley area probably will break a 50-year record that includes California's famed "wet" years of 1937, 1952, and 1958.

The other team members, Larry Bell, of PG&E's El Dorado watershed, installed flash boards to increase storage in dams which had been opened during winter months. The higher elevation dams, though small, will store water in the high country that can be used at a later date as needs dictate.

It was a full day's work for the PG&E team--a long and arduous trip on foot.

"But the scenery took the edge off fatigue," the three agreed.

West Valley College board cuts $225,000 from budget

The West Valley College Board of Trustees cut $225,000 from its proposed general fund budget at its meeting last Thursday, including a $25,000 item on additional parking in the Campbell area. Public hearing on the overall budget proposal is set for Thursday, Aug. 3.

If the proposal holds up, and no further changes are made as a result of the public hearing, there could be an estimated three-cent reduction in the proposed tax, when it is finally set, Dr. Wallace W. Hall, college president and board secretary, told the board.

As it stands, the general fund budget was reduced from $5,957,983 to $5,732,983. The Special Reserve budget remains at the $4,692,206 figure going into the public hearing.

Reductions were first proposed by Trustee Edward A. Panelli. He suggested a $25.000 item for additional parking in the Campbell area would not be needed during this fiscal year, since all college parking is not now being utilized.

A $200,000 item for portable buildings would likewise not be needed, he said "because we have already contracted for all we can reasonable build and reasonably locate" in the current fiscal year.

Other board members agreed, and Trustee Robert W. Brydon then moved elimination of the two items from budget. The motion was passed unanimously.

The Board also heard plans for further construction on the Saratoga campus, authorizing Dr. Hall to enter into contracts with Higgins and Root, architects, for relocatable buildings to be used as showers, locker-equipment, toilets and other utilities needed in connection with proposed swimming pool, tennis courts, and all-purpose playing fields to be laid out under plans proposed by Reid and Tarics, architects.

The Board further approved preliminary plans for five relocatable buildings to provide classrooms and other facilities for its Food Services and Restaurant Management program, to be located on the Saratoga campus.

The Board also:

Named Trustee William J. Homan as a candidate for the newly-formed statewide Delegate Assembly of the California School Boards Association.

Approved financial claims totaling $72,939.09, including the first payment, to the Barnhart Construction Company for the work done thus far on the Engineering-Technology Building on the Saratoga Campus.

Renewed the annual lease, with minor changes, with the Campbell Union School District, for the present temporary facilities now being used as the West Valley College campus, at 51 E. Campbell Ave., Campbell.

Renewed leases for three months with the present tenants in the house located on college property on the Saratoga campus.

Adopted revised policies on student and faculty parking and on payment of fees by non-state residents and definition of state residence.

Heard from Dr. Hall that final average daily attendance (ADA) figures for 1966-67 were 3,660 units, up from the previous year total of 3,033, for a 20 per cent increase.

Appointed Alvin H. McManus as building inspector for the completion of the relocatables on the Campbell campus. McManus, a Morgan Hill resident, will receive a monthly salary of $800.

Also appointed Jean I. Denny as a home economics instructor.

College cites housing need

There is an increasing need for housing for students who will attend West Valley College in the fall, according to Calvin L. Bell, dean of student activities at the college.

Greatest need is in the immediate area of the temporary campus, located at 51 E. Campbell Ave., Campbell, at the intersection of Campbell Ave. and Winchester Blvd., Bell said.

Typical request is for either a room or room and board in a private home near the college.

If you have such facilities available, contact Dean Bell at the college, telephone number 379-1733, extension 46.

Seventh-day Adventists to aid Indians

A special "Day of Concern" for American Indians will be observed in ninety-three Seventh-day Adventist churches in the eighteen counties of Central California on Saturday, July 29, according to an announcement by the Central California Adventist president, Elmer R. Walde.

"In the midst of a land of plenty many of this country's original citizens are gripped by poverty and disease," said President Walde in announcing the special event in all churches of the Adventist faith.

The church leader said a special offering will be taken during 11 a.m. worship services Saturday morning (Seventh-day Adventists worship on Saturday, the week's seventh day) with resulting funds going to church-operated facilities in Arizona and Utah to provide welfare, educational, and medical aid to thousands of Indians.

Social Security office explains disability plan

Some seriously disabled workers in Santa Clara County do not appear to fully understand how valuable social security may be to them, according to John J. Cassidy, Social Security district manager at San Jose.

"No longer does a person have to be permanently disabled, but if his disability is severe and can be expected to last at least a year, he should apply for consideration," Cassidy said.

The requirements for receiving social security disability benefits are simple. First, a person must have worked under social security in five years of the ten-year period immediately before his disability began.

A medical report from the attending physician is needed, to help establish the disability, and frequestly no further evidence is necessary.

There is a special provision for people who are blind. If one is totally blind before age 31, he need work only one year for every two years after age 21 and before he became blind.

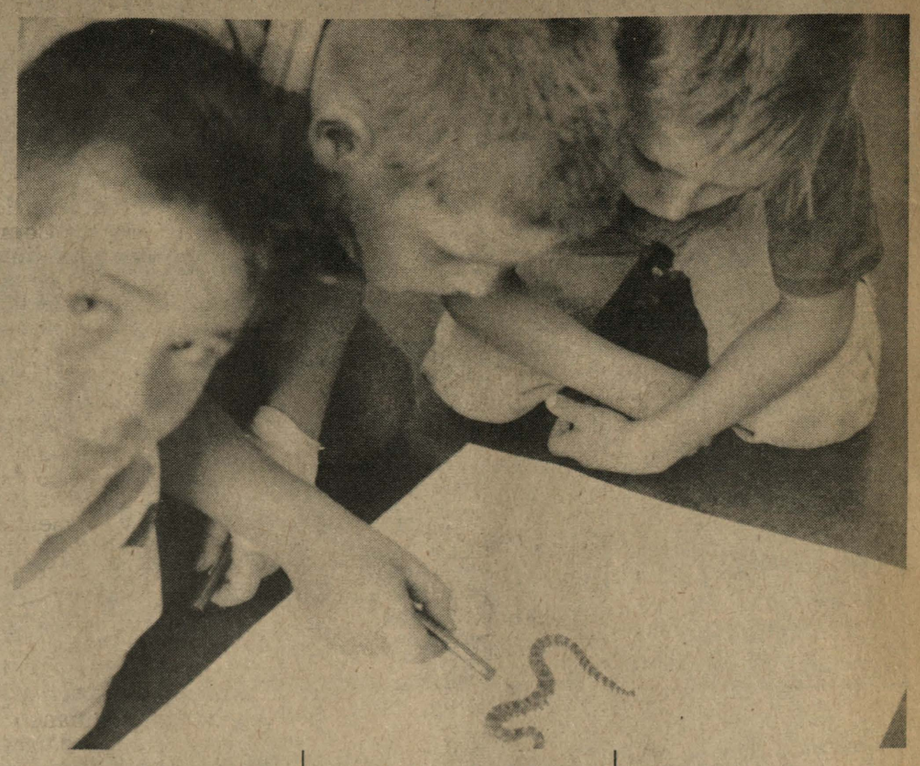
There is no particial disability payment under the Social Securty law. The degree of impairment must be considered so disabling that a person is unable to do any substantial work.

Receiving social security while one is ill or injured has the added advantage of freezing his earnings record while he is ill. This prevents counting the time against him while he is off from work due to illness.

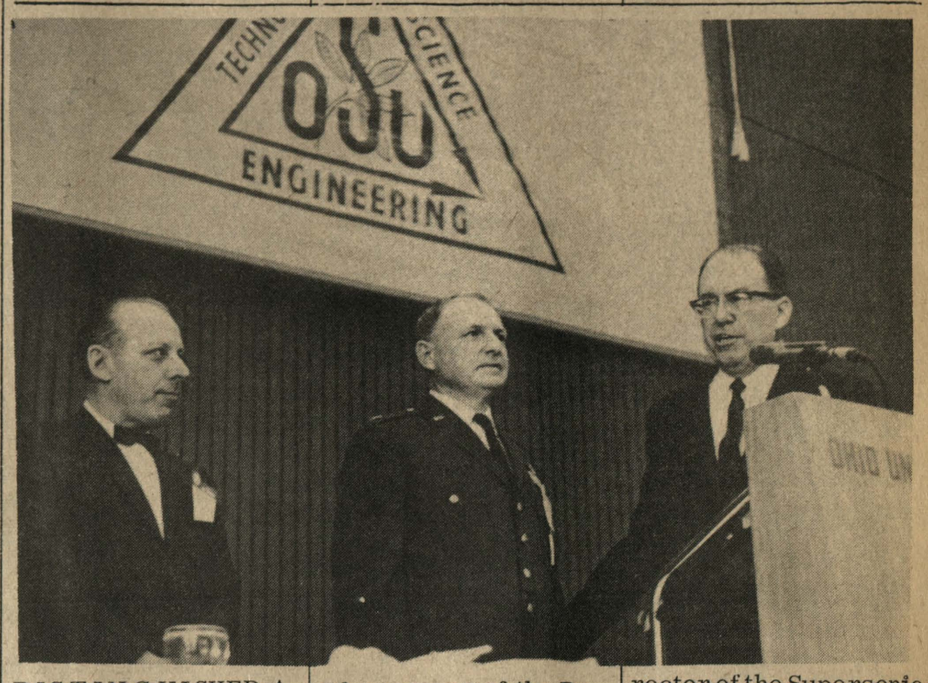
In every instance where a person files for social security disability, his name is referred to the nearest Vocational Rehabilitation Office.

Additional information is available at the Social Security District Office at 500 S. First St., San Jose. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

In addition, the office is open until 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays, for the convenience of those who cannot visit the office during regular office hours.



IT'S A REAL ONE--Three of the Hazelton brothers, Michael (7), Robert (13) and Donald (10) of 264 Everett, Campbell, closely examine a tiny rattlesnake (with it one rattler removed). The snake was found near the athletic field of Campbell High School and the boys brought their prize to The Press office before destroying it.



DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS--Air Force Col. Lucian S. Rochte, son of Mrs. Gladys Rochte of 300 N. Milton Ave., Campbell, receives a 1967 Distinguished Alumnus Award from Harold A. Bolz, Dean of the College of Engineering at Ohio State University. At the left is Dr. Garven L. Von Eschen, Chairman of the Department of Aeronautical and Astronautical Engineering. Col. Rochte received a degree in aeronautical engineering from Ohio State University in 1953. He commanded the 4th Combat Cargo Group in the China-Burma-India Theater of World War II, served as first director of the Supersonic Transport Program for the Federal Aviation Agency, and Deputy for Technology for the Air Force Systems Command's Space Systems Division. He is presently on the staff of the Air Force's Space and Missile Systems Organization, Los Angeles.

Gubser wants U.S military out of Congo

Congressman Charles S. Gubser (R-Calif.) this week called for withdrawal of all United States military personnel and material from the Congo.

In a resolution offered in the House of Representatives, Congressman Gubser said that President Johnson's recent action of ordering military aircraft to the Congo should not have been taken without the approval of Congress since the aircraft were sent to the Congo to settle an internal disturbance and not in self-defense or in defense of a United States citizen.

In introducing his resolution, Congressman Gubser said, "President Johnson's action is reminiscent of the events which led to our present commitment of Southeast Asia. The time has come," he continued, "when we must stop involving ourselves in strictly internal arguments every time they erupt.

Our original commitment in Vietnam was just as innocent as sending three planes to the congo, yet look where it led the United States. We're spread too thinly and we can't assume the responsibility of being a world-wide police force."

Gubser's resolution expressed the "sense of...Congress...that no additional military personnel or material, combatant or otherwise, should be committed by the United States to the Republic of the Congo without prior approval by the Congress of the United States.

Parcel post goes on six day basis

Parcel post deliveries in Campbell have been expanded from five to six days a week as of July 18, according to Postmaster James Hurley.

This is in line with a recent directive from Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien following the signing of the Post Office department appropriation bill by President Johnson.

Nearly 5,000 cities are affected, Postmaster Hurley said.

According to Hurley, postal customers served by "motorized" letter carriers have been receiving six-day deliveries all along. They were not covered by the 1964 cut back

The Campbell postal official noted that the improved service will remove an inequity for many business and residential routes.

inas much as carriers on vehicles can deliver parcles of any size.

Customers living on routes serviced by foot carriers have received larger parcels from a five-day a week parcel post route covered by a truck. Carriers on foot only deliver small packages.
